An action round represents 6 seconds.

You may attempt to perform more actions, suffering a cumulative –5 penalty for each additional action.

To determine initiative

2d6 + swiftness + any other modifiers

Armed Attack Test

2d6 + attribute modifier + armed attack skill + other modifiers.

TN = targets Defence Value

Marginal success or better indicates successful attack. Roll damage dice.

To avoid damage, perform a dodge or parry/block action.

Ranged Attack Test –

2d6 + attribute modifier + ranged attack skill + other modifiers.

Check weapon description for range increment modifiers.

TN = targets Defence Value

Marginal success or better indicates successful attack. Roll damage dice.

Dodge costs 1 action. If the attack roll succeeds, result becomes TN for the Dodge roll which is 2d6 + swiftness + other modifiers. If this succeeds, attack misses. If the attackers test fails, no dodge roll need be made. Result can be deferred until target is hit later in the round.

Block or Parry - Takes 1 action. Declare before the attacker rolls his skill test. If successful, result becomes TN for the block or parry roll, which is an opposed armed or unarmed combat skill test. Unlike a dodge, this action only applies to a single incoming attack.

Unarmed Attack Test –

As above but substitute unarmed attack skill

Taking Damage –

As your character suffers damage, he will progress through wound levels describing his degree of injury. As he drops from one wound level to the next, he will suffer penalties that apply to all physical and mental tests. Strength modifiers apply to the damage test made for armed and unarmed attacks.
